

To Think is to Create Lesson 3

Once you have decided you want to succeed in a certain area of your life, what's the best strategy for you to move forward so you can achieve it?

How is your outlook of the world related to the way you think about yourself?

When you feel bitter, frustrated or just not on top of your game, what can you do so you can change the way you feel?