

To Think is to Create Lesson 5

What's a technique you can use to switch your thought processes when you continue to believe other people or circumstances are the reason you feel hurt?

How can we prevent other people and circumstances from controlling our emotions?

According to the video, what's a strategy you can use if you don't like the results you're creating?